SEVEN GANGSTERS SLAIN BY FIRING SQUAD OF RIVALS, SOME IN POLICE UNIFORMS

Chicago Gangsters Graduate from Murder to Massacre

The Mayor Has Sent Out His Warning It's A War to Finish

CHICAGO — The Mayor made his speech regarding the terrible crime, saying that "the gangsters have written their own doom. It is a war to finish."

But Morgan said he had gotten a "weird vibe" and thought Holmes had snatched on him to authorize. He was wrong, just when Holmes came looking for a gun, Morgan said he sent him to meet with Wicked Town gangster Darius "Shoulder" Murphy.

Only five years later, a federal jury Thursday viewed the bloody aftermath that resulted from Morgan's suspicion that Holmes had been "playing with the police." Crisp scene video and photographs from the Jan. 21, 2014, slaying of Holmes and his girlfriend, Diane Taylor, were shown as the trial of alleged Wicked Town leader Donald Lee ended its second week of testimony.

Holmes and Taylor were craned down in front of Holmes' 2013 Jeep Cherokee outside Murphy's home in the 4700 block of Arthington Street. Taylor was in the driver's seat, and Holmes was in the passenger seat.

$25,000 Cash Reward For Information and Evidence

Presumably, jurors saw the bloody bodies of Taylor and Holmes in front of the Jeep. Taylor's head, with a wig cap exposed, could be seen resting on Holmes' body. In the back of the car, a Grand Lux bag rests on the floor near pools of blood.

Federal prosecutors warned jurors before testimony began last week that they would see evidence of graphic violence committed by the Wicked Town street gang. And they offered a word of caution again Thursday. Still, the jurors did not appear to look away from the evidence. Rather, some seemed to be studying it closely and taking notes on the floor near pools of blood.

Pictures taken by John — bodies were found slumped on the floor of a warehouse in downtown Chicago. Suspects have fired from the location and bullets were found next to the bodies.
